

Study Sediment in Texas Reservoirs RSMP, Texas

Purpose: Recent hydrographic surveys indicate that a significant amount of sedimentation has occurred within most Texas Reservoirs since their construction. The study would identify potential dredge alternatives, including disposal and costs, develop a list of Federal and non-Federal permits that would be required prior to implementation and assist in establishing state of Texas priorities as part of the state's water planning efforts.

Sponsor: Texas Water Development Board.

Congressional District: All members of Texas Congressional delegation